It's twenty minutes after four and school is out for the year.

Time Marches On

AS THESE last swift weeks have brought this fun-filled high school life to a close for us seniors, they have also brought many new decisions and plans for the future.

Although we are individuals and will lead different lives, Time is our common dominating force. No one can plan anything, whether it be a last minute date or a job for the future, without taking into consideration the right moment, the suitable time.

Now, then, is the time for us to leave. It is time for the juniors to take over leadership, and for each class to take on a new role.

Therefore, the three of us have taken Time, which we consider a guiding force of life, and used it for our theme throughout this book.

On the following pages we have tried to capture many pleasant moments and occasions which are all a part of the March of Time.

As years pass and erase some of these memories, we hope that you will open this book, and like turning a clock back, you may see again some of our fun-filled high school days and nights.

Dedication

WE HAVE gone to school to get an education, but in getting it, we have had the times of our lives—times that we'll remember long after we have forgotten algebra equations or Latin verbs.

After certain history dates have slipped our minds, we'll remember other dates—Debs' Night when that cute new gal got up the nerve to ask her dream man, the Senior Ball with that handsome football captain. And didn't we have fun decorating for the Junior Prom?

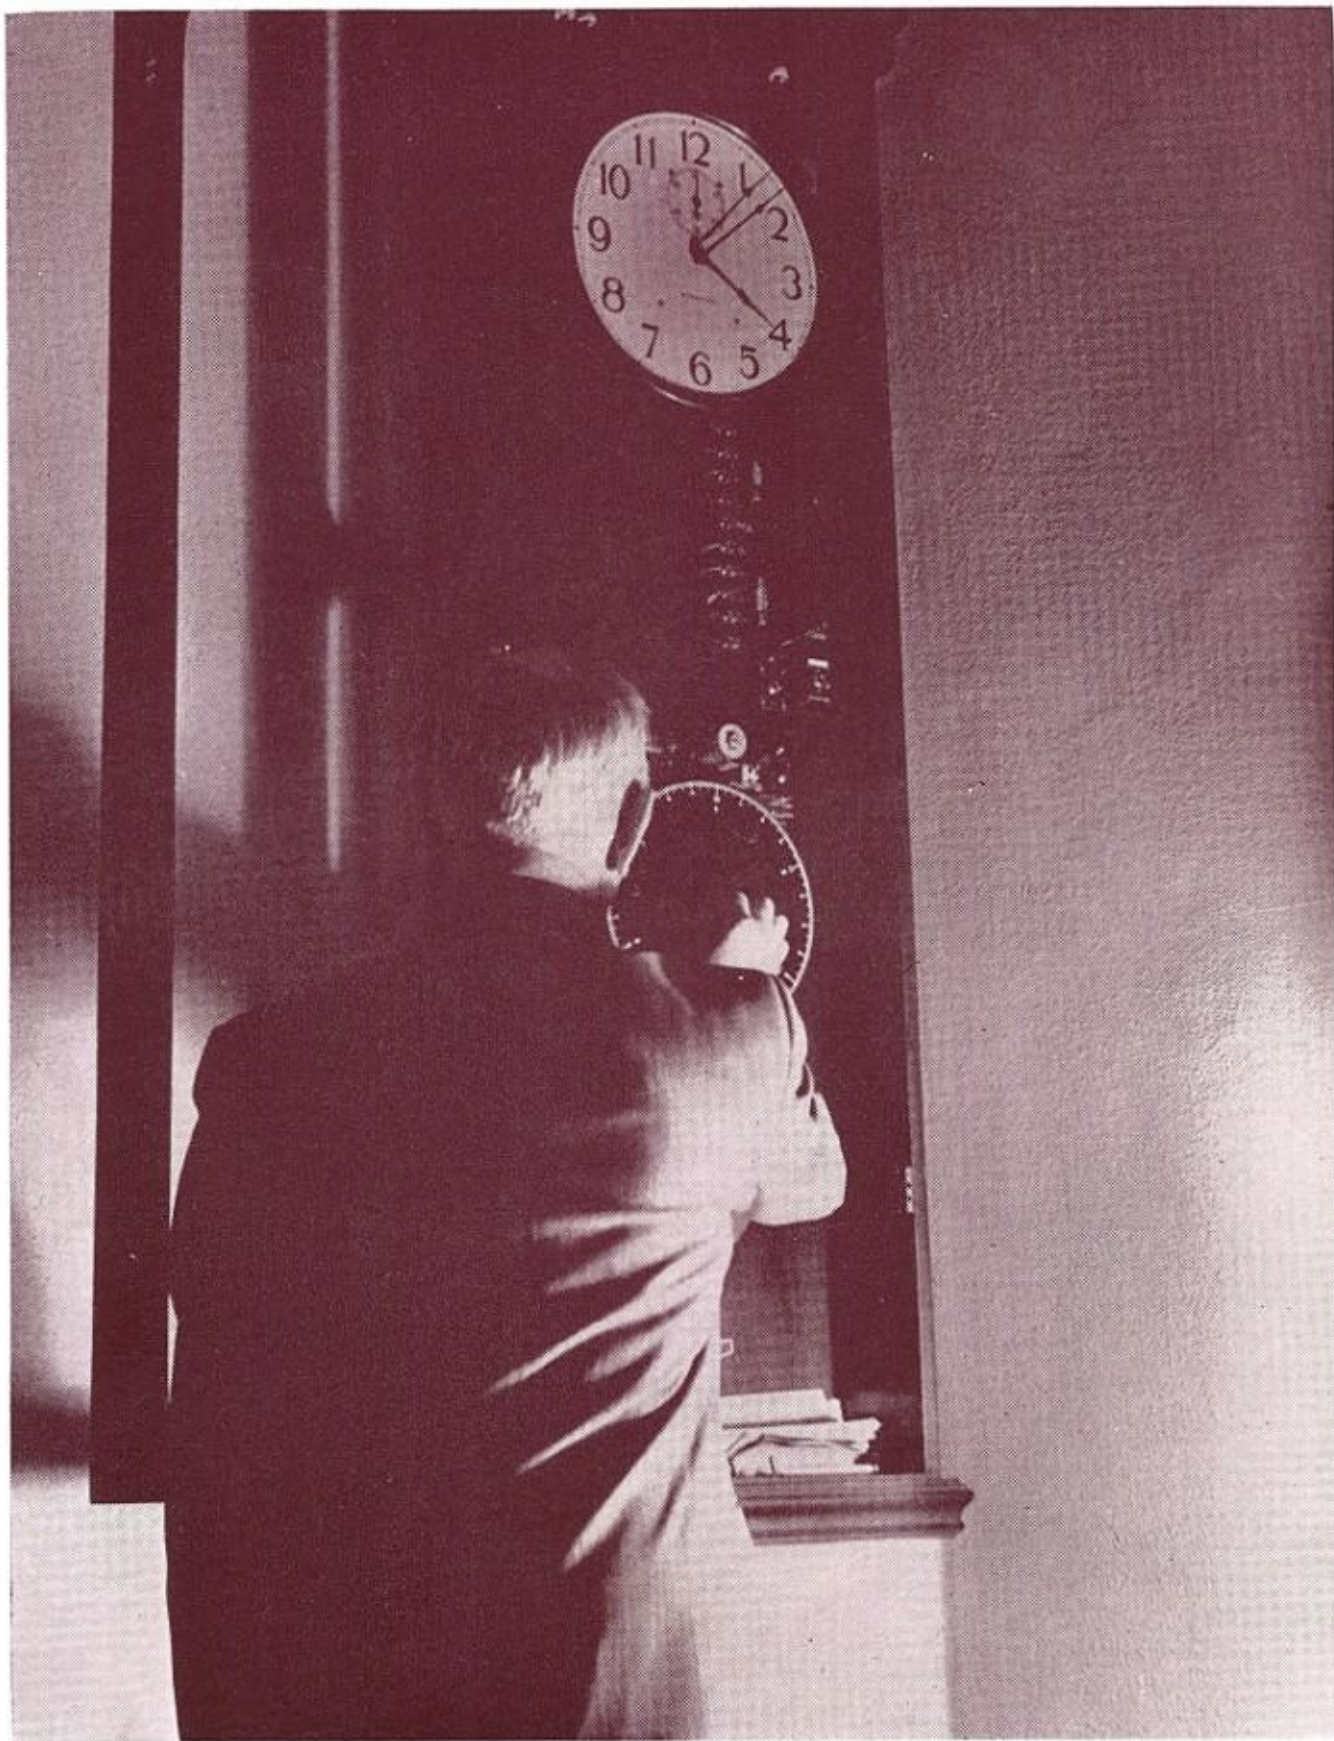

Some of the classes were even fun. Who could forget the discussions in sociology? Or the time in study hall when we sang "Happy Birthday" to someone?

And, of course, the games. Even when we lost it was fun. When we won, it was terrific. Remember all the times when we took the buses to out-of-town games? Everyone surely got a load of our school spirit, including those poor bus drivers.

Who could forget Old Clothes Day? It's a mystery why some of the kids didn't get pneumonia, running around in barrels or pajamas when they should have had on coats. Yet everyone, even the teachers, seemed to live through it.

These things, and so many others, will stay with us a long time. The 1950 Bear Tracks, in order to help us remember the fun we have had, is dedicated to our good times in high school. May we never forget them!

ADMINISTRATION

MRS. MARY CANNON
Secretary

L. C. ROBINSON
Superintendent

Administration and Faculty

RUNNING a school system is like managing a large corporation. Mr. Robinson, superintendent of three Moscow schools, manages the finances, the hiring of teachers, and takes care of all the problems connected with the schools. Mrs. Mary Cannon is his secretary.

Working hand in hand with the students is Principal Francis Nonini. His regular duties include arranging assemblies, scheduling all dances and special activities, and advising the Student Council. The office secretary is Mrs. Edith Long.

Besides conducting their various classes, the faculty members may be found advising clubs and classes, and chaperoning dances.

The school board supervises the overall educational policy of the school system. One of the problems before the school board at present is the expansion of the building program to take care of the large enrollment coming up.

Girls' Adviser

THROUGHOUT the year many a girl has received help and encouragement from Mrs. Beulah Martin, girls' adviser. Her judgment and wisdom are respected by all the girls who constantly file in to present their problems and receive her advice.

Besides teaching her mathematics classes, she manages to find time for supervising the Girls' League cabinet and assisting with teas, dances and various other activities.

She also takes charge of the aptitude tests and consults with each girl in high school as to her special talents and future career.

Boys' Adviser

TED Correll, boys' adviser, is a genial fellow who is never too busy to help others with their problems.

In his twenty-three years at Moscow high, Ted has taught algebra, geometry, general math, and trigonometry. He also has been credited with helping many students with their future professions and hobbies as well as cultivating new interests right in high school.

He is a sought-after class adviser because of his unfailing efforts to help with dances, raffles and other money-making activities so important to a successful class.

Council Governs Student Activities

ACTING as the voice of the high school, the members of the Student Council took care of the problems and wishes of the students as best they could.

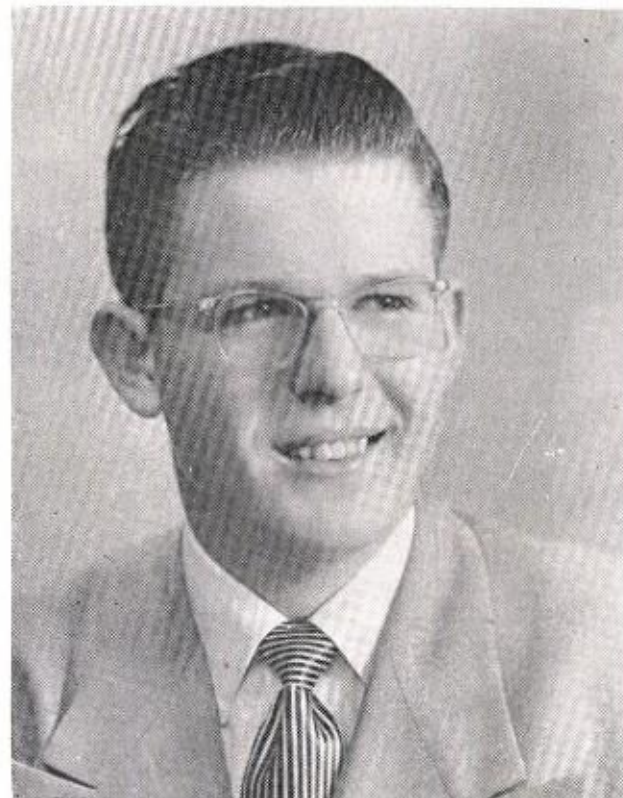

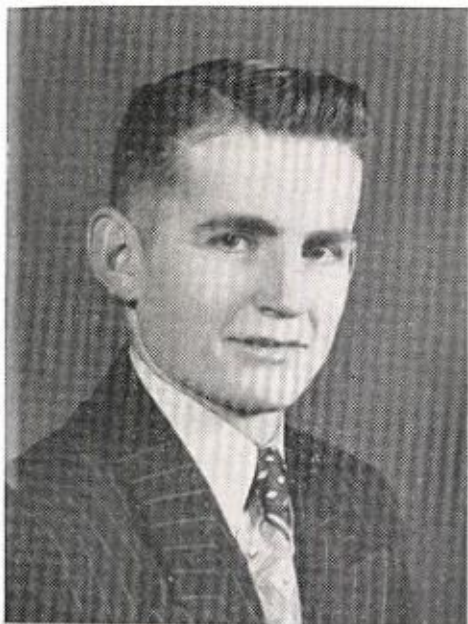

Their activities included buying flower baskets for the use of all school organizations, renting staplers to the different clubs, and buying an American flag as a permanent addition in the gym.

Seniors Conclude High School Days

ATTENDING only events prefixed by the word "senior" would have kept any student busy this year. First there were senior-frosh dates on October 5, closely followed by the senior mixer "B.A.M."

February 24 found the seniors donning grease paint to present the Irish comedy, "Peg O' My Heart."

With springtime came the senior tea and the picnic, and "Memories," the Senior Ball.

Baccalaureate and commencement brought to an end four well rounded years for the graduating class of 1950.

Clockwise: Edro Miller (council representative), Joan Ogle (secretary), Mrs. Montgomery (adviser), Mr. Correll (adviser), Keith Tarbox (vice president), Gale Mix (president).

BY THE super-salesmanship of such articles as car license tags, bobby sox and purses, high pressure junior hucksters saw to it that every spare nickel in M.H.S. found its way into the junior treasury. Several successful mixers given during the year furthered this cause; in addition, the girls bolstered the financial status of the class by selling refreshments at athletic events.

The Junior Prom, "Up In Central Park," on April 14 was a never-to-be-forgotten dance and was a fitting climax to three eventful years for the class of '51.

Conscientious Sophomores

HELPING to start the school year off with a bang, the sophomores sponsored the second mixer of this term on October 1.

Their participation in many fields — musical, dramatic, and athletic — demonstrated that the sophomores will be able to carry on in the best tradition as upperclassmen.

Boys of the class of '52 were known as "spark plugs" of the B squads. Their performances in football, basketball, and track gave local fans high hopes for future years.

Clockwise: Arlene Wood (secretary), Junior Dalberg (council representative), Wayne Carson (vice president), Mr. Paasch (adviser), Larry Carson (president).

Freshmen Breeze Through

ENTERING into varied activities with vigor and enthusiasm, the class of '53 gave every indication of being a valuable asset to Moscow high.

On February 11 the first freshman mixer was given carrying out a valentine theme, "You're Breaking My Heart." Cupids and hearts inscribed with the names of couples decorated the walls.

Earning numerals in several sports, freshman athletes did much to further the Bears' reputation as a tough team to beat.

Rogers Rambles Through

As senior class president, Richard Rogers takes the same bumps and flunks that everybody else does.

At 8:30 he ambles up the street towards school with the rest of the gang.

Later he drifts into the office to wangle an excused absence from Mrs. Long. She grins, writes "Unexcused," and asks how the squirrels were.

First period sees him in art with a number of other budding Rembrandts trying to soak up culture via paint on his pants.

Second period he is in Mrs. Whitehead's class trying to improve his English usage. "I never done it nohow!"

Third period finds him in typing. A?!!BcZs,T. Twenty words a minute. Oh, well, they never pick boys for secretaries anyway.

An Average Day at M.H.S. . . .

He works up an appetite fighting his way through lunch line.

In the other thirty minutes he finishes a chapter in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

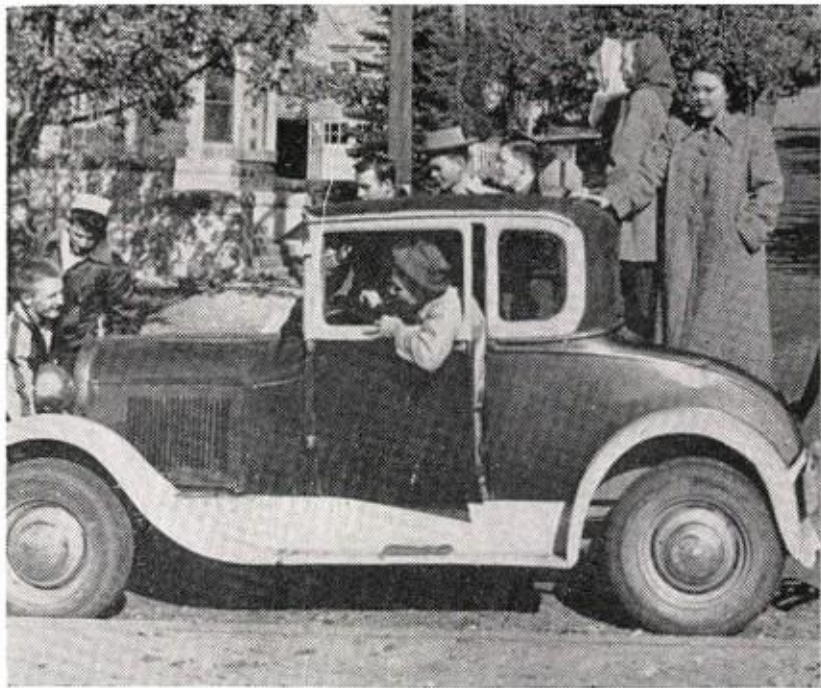

12:50: Pardon the whispering, but we're not allowed to talk in study hall.

After generously piling his books into a freshman's waiting arms, he hurtles to the first floor and chemistry class.

In manual arts they drill it in. How bored can you get?

... and Relaxes After School

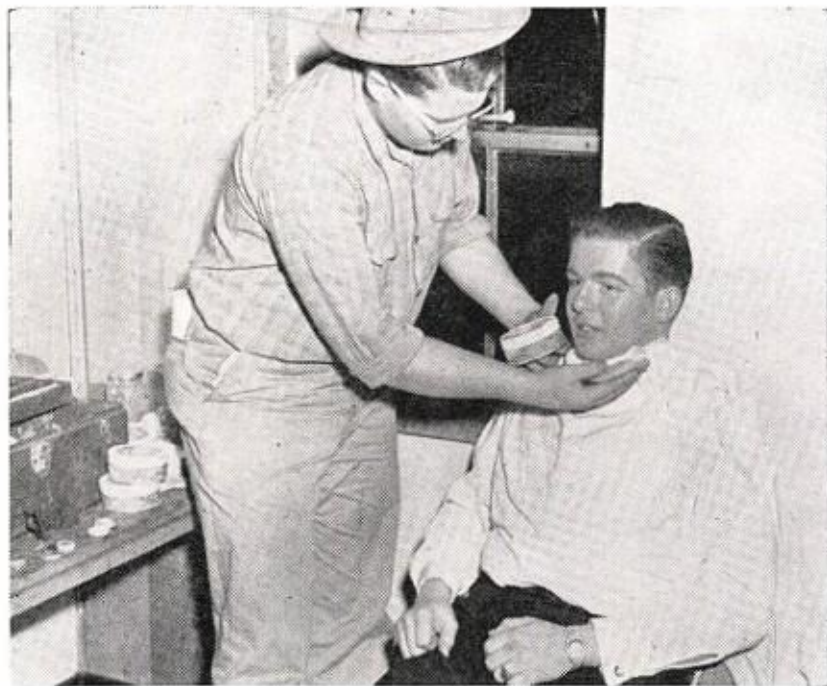

Hooray, 3:45! The Nobby Inn Special starts for town. Good thing it's down hill.

Hashing over the more serious things in life such as girls, cars, girls, football, and girls, he drinks a root beer.

What a line! During the dinner hour he settles several weighty problems.

Chemistry has to wait until play practice is over, but come 9:30 it's.

eat, drink and study if he has time.

Boys' League

HELPING the new boys to get started and learn the ways of our school was the first and most important activity of the Boys' League and its cabinet this year.

The Boys' League added another feather in its cap by aiding Pullman in organizing a similar group. The Boys' League consists of all the boys in M.H.S. and was under the leadership of Bob Barber during the first semester and Bob Reitan during the second semester. Ted Correll is adviser.

Girls' League

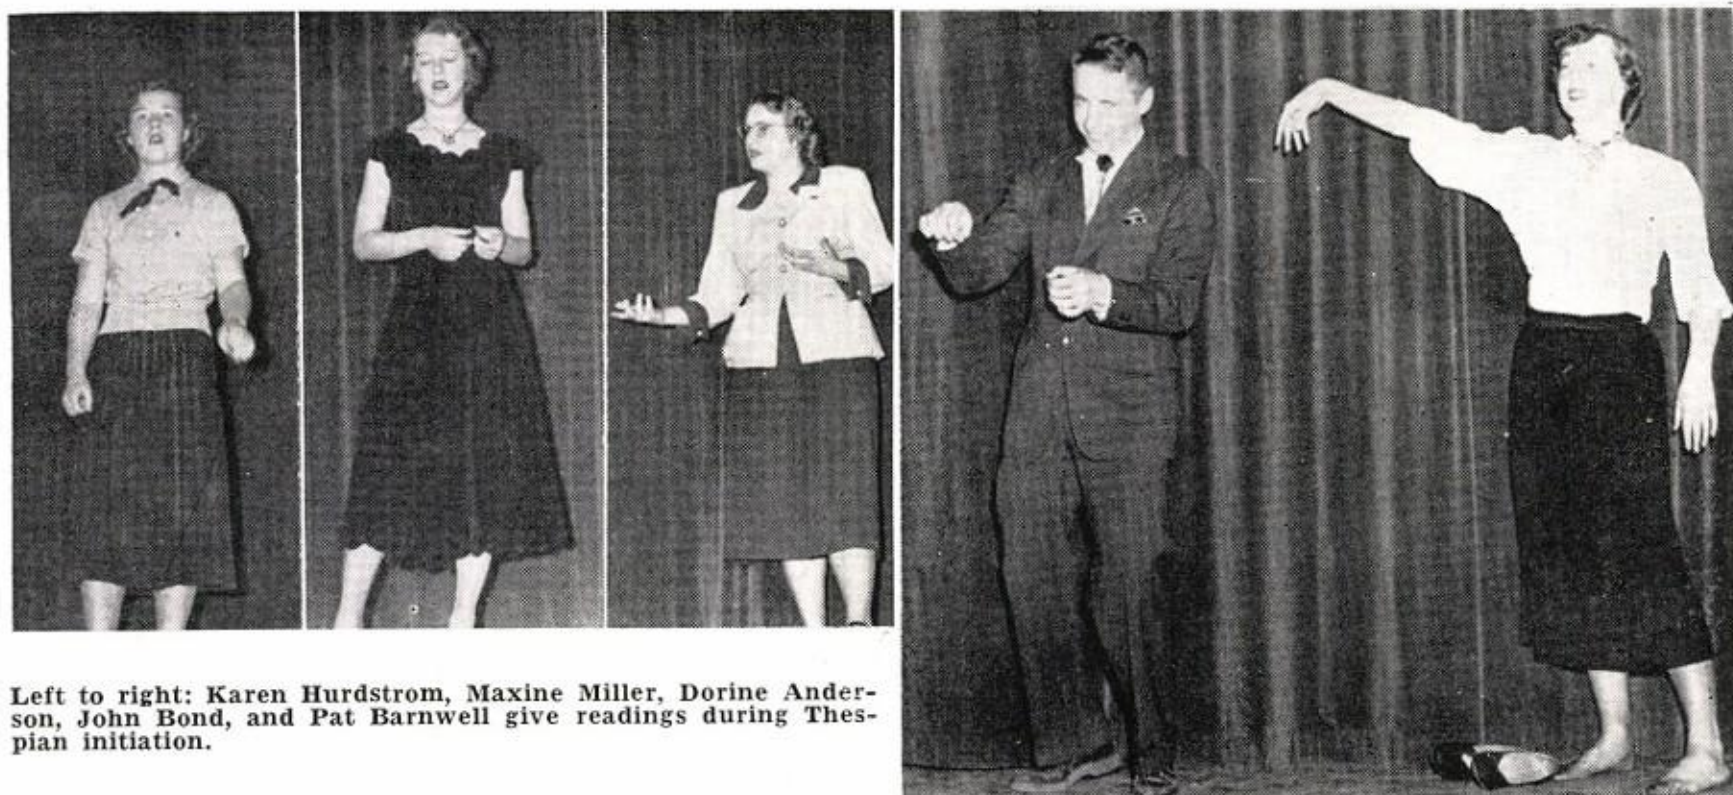

"DEBB NIGHT" is always the big event for the Girls' League. This year the theme was "How Deep is the Ocean?" and the Russell gym was decorated with an underwater scene. A rummage sale was held in November to obtain money for the dance.

The cabinet also held its annual exchange dinner with the Pullman girls in March.

April 23 marked the date of a spring tea for the mothers and daughters.

THESPIANS, national dramatic honorary, began its second year under the direction of Edward Dalva by initiating nine members after the production of the all school show, "Meet Me In St. Louis."

The membership enrollment was made still larger after the senior play, "Peg O' My Heart."

The highlight of the year was when the society played host to the state drama festival which was held in Moscow in April. Most of the members took part in the contest.

Second row: Geraldine Fritzley, Susan Banks (vice president), Timmie Hart, Evelyn Daniel, Adele Thomas, Catherine Fitzgerald, Mrs. Henderlider (adviser).

Pep Club

THE Pep Club has proved active this year by taking tickets and ushering at basketball and football games.

Membership in this organization is limited to girls who have earned five hundred points by participation in after-school sports.

The club sponsored a mixer which was decorated in keeping with the theme, "Dark Town Strutters' Ball."

Girls' Athletic Association

IN THE line of duty the Girls' Athletic Association participated in many tournaments and brought much glory to M.H.S. In its spare time, the G.A.A. sponsored a mixer and held its initiation.

The girls turn out for after-school sports on Tuesday and Thursday, and by active participation in the many sports try to earn the five hundred points necessary for Pep Club membership.

Boys' "M" Club

THE members of the Boys' "M" Club have been under the guidance of Ed Johnson as president.

Their first social event was a hay ride early in the fall.

Funny pranks and girls' clothes characterized the club's high spot of the year, which was an initiation and dance for seven new members.

Early spring activities featured the "M" Club picnic and a welcome mixer held for the eighth graders.

Future Home Makers

THIS year the Moscow chapter of Future Home Makers of America has been one of the school's most active clubs. A harvest ball put on jointly by the F.F.A. and F.H.A. was the group's first social event of the year.

F.H.A. week during November began with a formal initiation ceremony. During that week the Future Home Makers also sponsored a radio program and assembly.

Have Strong Group

A silver tea was held before Christmas by the club for the purchase of a punch bowl and cups to be used by the school.

Moscow chapter of F.H.A. is proud of Isabel Clyde, senior, who is state president, and Karen Hurdstrom, sophomore, who is state F.H.A. recreation director. Last summer they attended the national meeting in Santa Barbara, California, with Fern Swenson, chapter president.

International Club

LETTERS and gifts to foreign stu-dents have been the most important projects of the International Club.

The club's biggest event was the an-nual Spanish Carnival in the gymnasi-um early in November.

This club is the only organization having evening meetings. Usually these meetings feature a well-known speaker, some foreign person or a motion picture.

THE Radio Club under the guidance of Mr. Barnes was a new organization to join M.H.S. second semester.

Composed of students interested in radio, the members took charge of station K.M.H.S., located on the third floor.

The club's policy is to teach radio techniques and to give experience to students who are interested in broadcasting and script writing.

Future Farmers of America

THE Future Farmers of America is a nation-wide organization, the membership of which is composed of young men enrolled in agriculture for the purpose of encouraging better stock on the farm and better building improvements.

This year the club had a basketball team which played surrounding schools' F.F.A. teams.

Highpoint of the year was when the organization placed 17 out of 68 in the Portland livestock judging team.

The F.F.A.'s year ended with an annual fishing and pleasure trip.

THE Quill and Scroll, one of the two national honorary societies in Moscow high, selects the most outstanding journalism students in school for its membership.

High point of the year was a candlelight initiation March 21 when the members of the past three years were guests.

In order to qualify for this organization a student must be in the upper one third of his class scholastically and must have done outstanding work in journalism, either in the writing or advertising field or in photography.

Journalists Handle Publications

PUTTING out both the school publications, the Wocsomonian and Bear Tracks, kept the journalism class busy.

The system of rotating editors and staff was used again this year on the paper to enable all members to hold a new position on each issue. Outstanding stories and editorials of all types appeared in this year's Wocso, which was published every three weeks.

The Idaho High School Press Association has rated the Wocsomonian as one of the top three papers in Idaho two years in succession.

This book is proof that the staff eventually finished all the assignments on the annual within the deadline—a real job in itself.

Last year's Bear Tracks was rated All State Superior.

Chorus Is Popular Group

OVER sixty voices were combined to make up the girls' chorus this year. Besides Christmas performances, the group presented a minstrel show in March and competed in the district music festival in Lewiston later in the spring. Mrs. Winifred Alldaffer directed the first semester and Mrs. Keith Forney was director the remainder of the year.

Triple Trios

THROUGHOUT the year the junior and senior triple trios entertained for numerous town organizations as well as for many school activities. The two groups also participated in the annual spring music festival at Lewiston. All of their practicing is done in the morning before school.

Boys' Chorus

UNDER the direction of Vincent La Voie the boys' chorus began its second year.

When the group enlarged second semester, it was combined with the girls' chorus to form a mixed choir.

The boys sang special numbers in the minstrel show. In the spring they entered the district music festival in Lewiston.

"Meet Me In St. Louis"

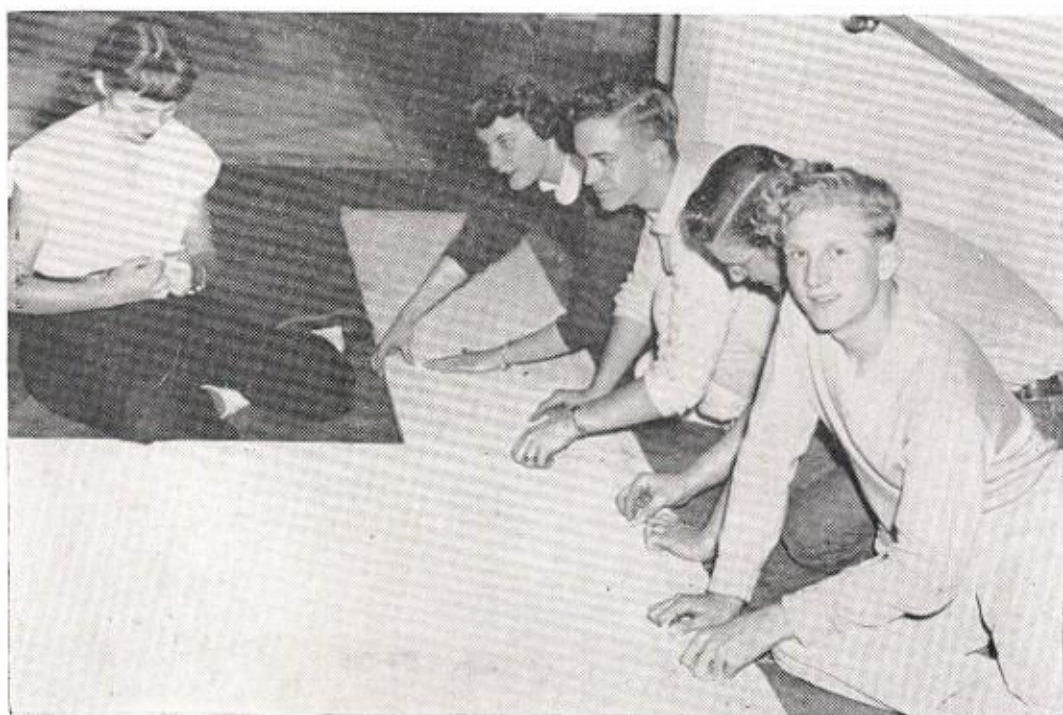

"MEET Me In St. Louis," the all school play, directed by Edward Dalva, was presented November 10.

Billie Steffens as the youngest sister provided the comedy as she prepared to bite the man who had discharged her father.

Maxine Miller as the mother was unusually good. Hugh Burgess did an outstanding job in the role of the worried father. The love interest centered around Beverly Gallup and Robert Melgaard, while Barbara Bonner tried to cause trouble between Sally DuSault and David Burgess.

Carol Boas as the irritable neighbor lady and Arthur Dalke as the grandfather and Dolores Espeland and Susan Banks as the other two sisters all did excellent jobs. Eugene Burden as the boss, Robert Trimble as his Man Friday, and Karen Hurdstrom as the maid rounded out the cast.

Connie Klaaren, Catherine Fitzgerald, Gene Burden, Richard Rogers, and David Burgess paint sets for the all-school play.

"Peg O' My Heart"

FEBRUARY 24 marked the presentation of the senior play, "Peg O' My Heart."

Jeanne Goulder was the uneducated Irish girl who came to live with her once wealthy aunt, Barbara Greene, and cousins, John Bond and Carol Boas, in order to become a lady. Richard Rogers was the romantic lead.

Two lively dogs and a fast moving dialogue provided plenty of laughs.

Bands Gain Stature

A SNAPPY band under the direction of Maurice Ritchey added color and music to the football games this year and presented several concerts as well as participating at the annual spring music festival at Lewiston.

Led by seven majorettes they often provided half-time entertainment at the games. They showed skill in performing marching formations at the games and in parades held at different times of the year.

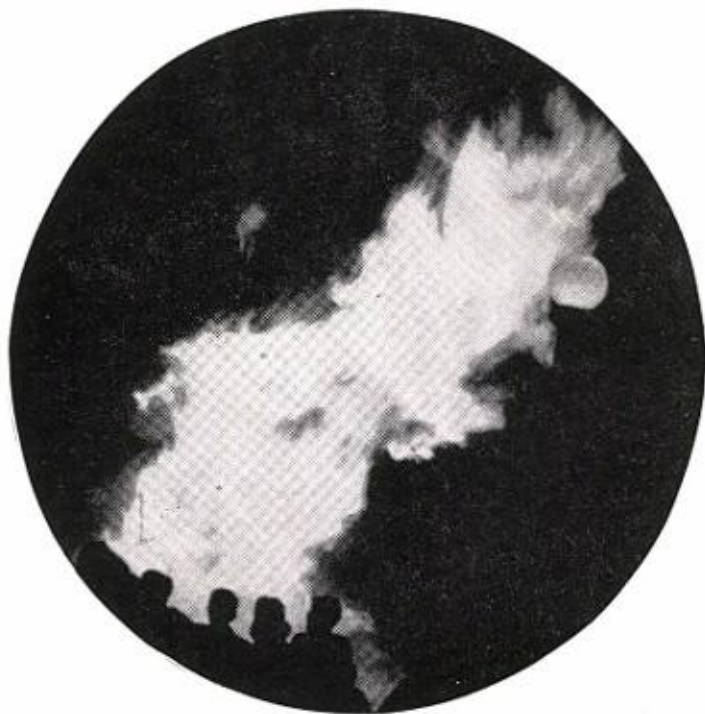

The band has been bolstered this year by the junior high school musicians, and shows promise of being even better in future years.

Reorganized at the beginning of the second semester was the Pep Band that gave out with hot licks and school songs during the basketball games here at home and at some of the out-of-town games. The band bought sweaters this year that gave them a uniform look. Also this year the Pep Band presented a mixer to add to its funds.

December 29 A swell dance was given at the Elks Temple for kids from this area.

January 10 Through bad weather and despite vacation, Clarkston got here for the game.

January 10-20—A snow vacation for everybody but the "Bear Tracks" staff; they trudged through the snow for their chawin' and jawin' sessions.

January 21 The Recreation Center sponsored a dance after we played Pullman here.

January 24 More snow and more vacation. Tooooo bad.

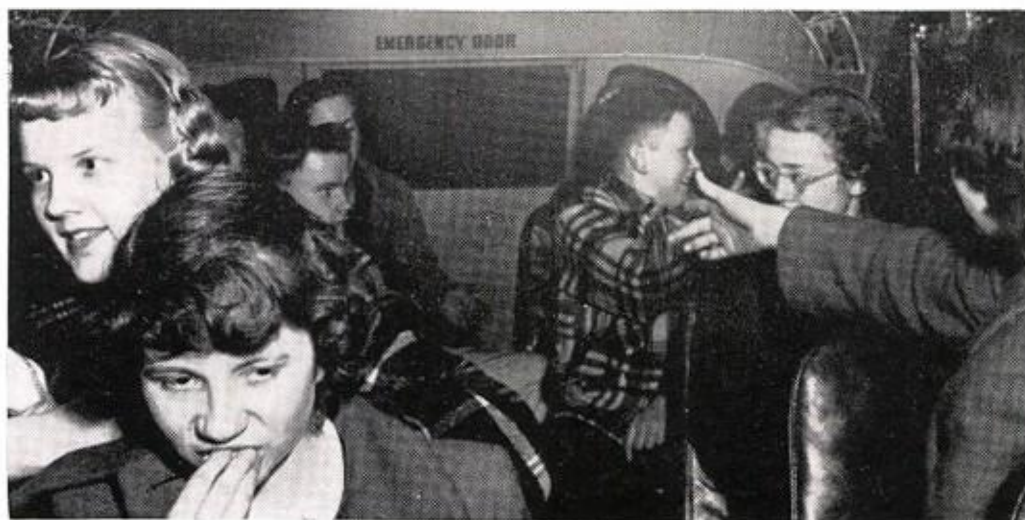

February 4 "Bear Tracks" staff gave a dance to finance Seattle trip.

February 18 Our last pep rally in the gym. After the last home game with Central Valley was the G.A.A. Mixer, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

February 21 We beat Pullman and won Hortense back again. They gave a dance for everyone afterwards.

February 24 The senior play, "Peg O' My Heart," provided plenty of laughs. A Thespian dance of the same title followed.

March 2 District tournaments. Bus loads of happy students went down to root for the team.

Bear Eleven Launches Potent Attack

WINNING three out of eight games this year the Moscow Bears repeated their performance of the year before in wins and losses.

With only three men left from last year's starting eleven and a handful of lettermen, Coach Paasch developed new material from the B squad. He was able in one season to give them not only experience but valuable football know-how.

Under the newly formed Inland Empire league the Bears met stiffer competition than they have for many years. With eight out of eleven of the first string graduating, Coach Overgaard will have to dip deeply into the reserves and rely on next year's freshman class. But both players and the coaches promise Moscow will be in there fighting.

Ed Johnson eludes Dayton players for a ten yard gain.

Bob Barber scores his third touchdown against Potlatch.

Coaches Work To Develop New Material

TAKING over the coaching reins at Moscow High School last fall were two former University of Idaho athletes. Ralph Paasch, a four year letterman in football, guided the Bear gridders through a tough schedule, winning three and losing five. Harold Jaussi, who spent his college days on the maple court, coached the Moscow hoopsters to one of their most successful seasons in many years.

When Paasch resigned, Moscow obtained another former Idaho football star to fill his position. He is Will Overgaard, also a four year letterman and an All-American Candidate. Overgaard should prove to be an outstanding addition to the Moscow coaching staff.

Cub Gridders Hold Key To Future

ALTHOUGH losing all but one of its games, the Moscow B squad left no doubt in the spectators' minds that they would brighten the Bears' 1950 grid hopes. Coached by Harold Jaussi, the Cubs took their only win of the season from the Pullman Pups. Included among the outstanding players on the team were Dwane Hodgson, Malcolm Neely, David Waterman, Ray Sawyer and Kenneth Keesee.

Squad Garneres Rugged Reputation

STARTING his first year as basketball coach at Moscow, Harold Jaussi, building his squad around three lettermen, molded the Bear hoopsters into a rugged, outstanding powerhouse.

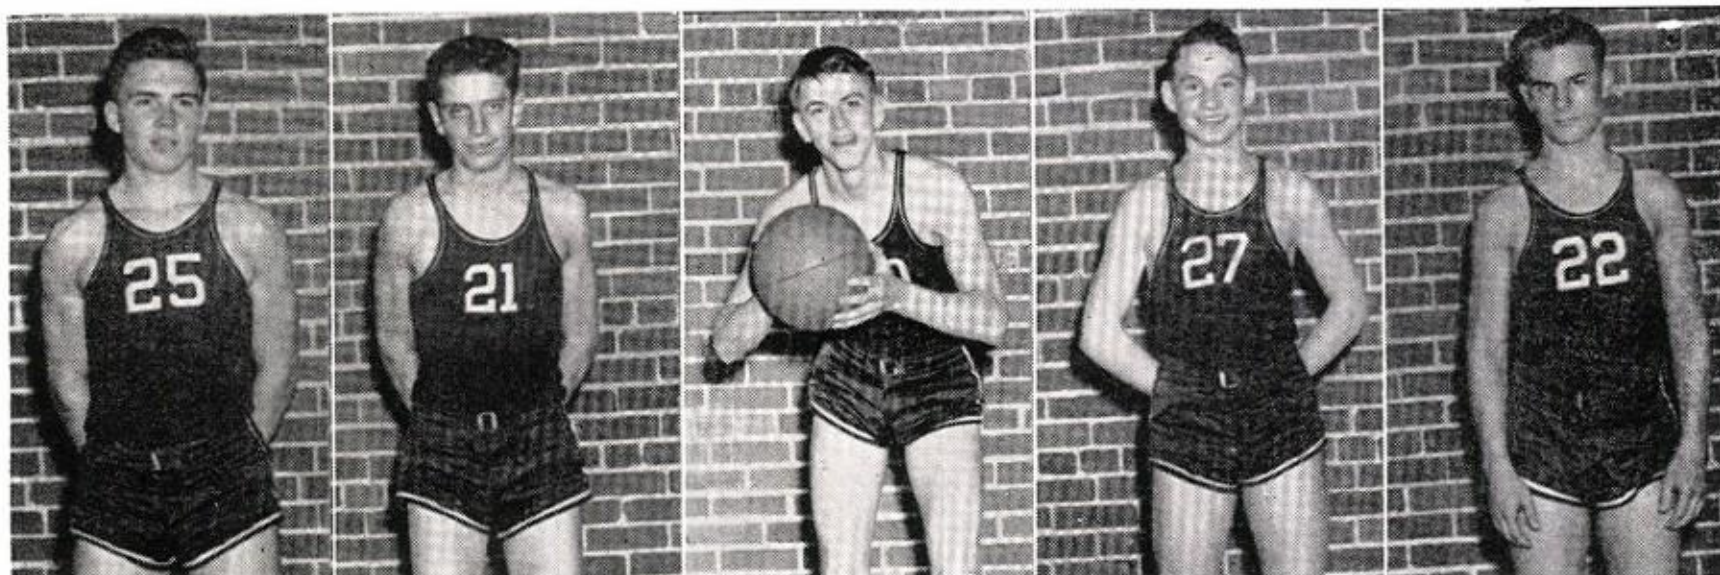

Prospects for a successful season at Moscow next year are bright. With six players from this year's squad returning, the Bears should produce a topnotch five.

Moscow's well rounded squad was sparked by Senior Keith Bieren, high scoring post man. Bieren's deadly right or left hand hook shot kept the opposing team on its mettle.

Sparkplug of the Bears' offense was Ed Johnson, playing his third year as guard. Ed, although not a high scorer, showed up consistently as a top play maker.

Showing exceptional promise, Junior Dalberg has two years of basketball ahead of him. Rounding out the first five are two scrappy juniors. Milan Tresnit, who is a vicious defensive player, and Tommy Keith, gifted with a long two-handed set shot that seldom misses, will be the leaders of next season's contingent.

Youthful Cagers Sparkle On Court

ENDING its season with seven wins and twelve losses the Moscow B squad made up of only freshmen and sophomores produced many outstanding players.

Led by Center Gene White, who ranked first in scoring with 134 points, the Cubs claim wins over such outstanding teams as Central Valley, Pullman and the Troy A squad.

Among the players that should bolster Moscow's chances next year are White, Frank Moore, Richard Paulson, Kenny Sodorff and Frank Chandler.

The Cubs were coached by Ralph Paasch during the early part of the season. After the resignation of Paasch at the end of the first semester, Will Overgaard took over the coaching reins.

Thinclads Work Hard For Laurels

ENTERING five meets, the Moscow cross country team, although not boasting an impressive record, produced many outstanding runners. Next fall's thinclads will be led by Lettermen Richard Schmidt and Wayne Lewis.

AT THE time of publication Moscow's track squad is hard at work, although progress is greatly hampered by the unstable weather. Four lettermen and many promising prospects should make a well rounded track squad. Although the thinclads have stronger teams to compete against this year, they should take their share of points in the meets.

Girls' Sports Prove Popular

Esther Henderlinder

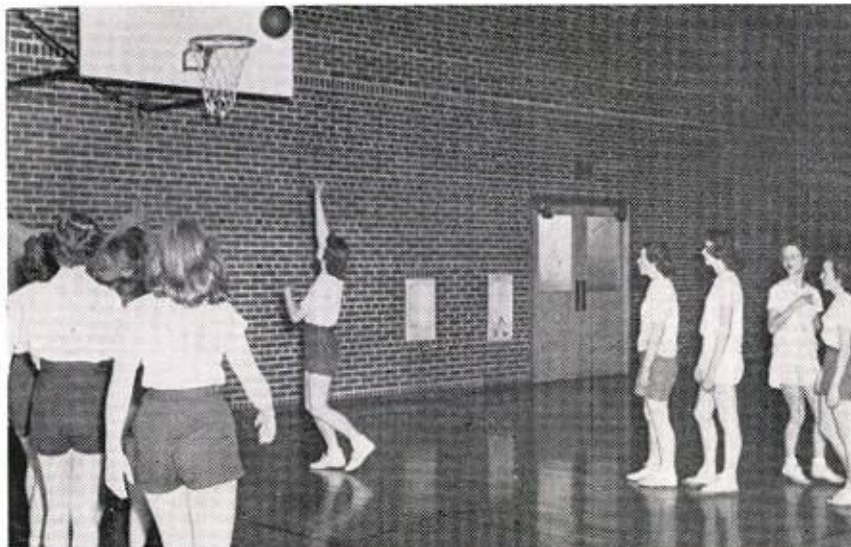

Esther Henderlinder is in her third year as girls' P.E. instructor, director of girls' after school sports, and Pep club adviser. During these years she has given them guidance and stressed the development of good sportsmanship.

GIRLS' P. E. and after-school sports helped to keep figures slim, aided in the development of coordination and brought out sportsmanship in the games that they played after school and during P. E. classes. Some of the games were basketball, soccer, volley ball, badminton, and a score of others.

Points were given for each after-school turnout, and after a total of five hundred points a girl received an "M". She was then eligible for the Pep Club.

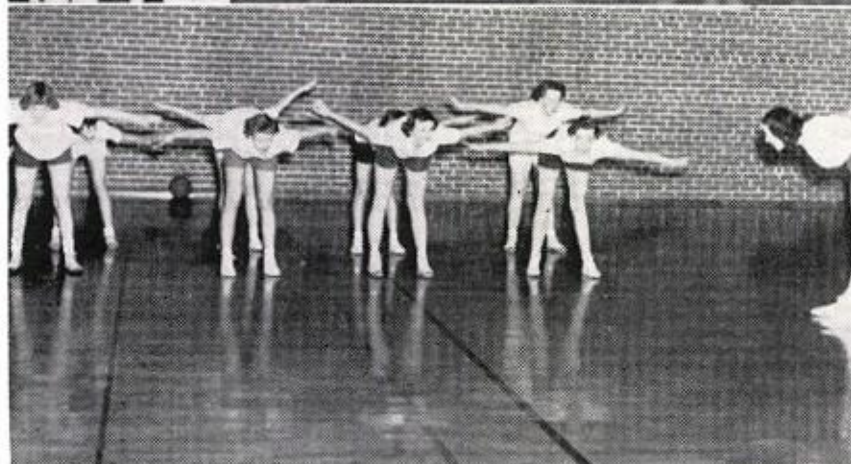

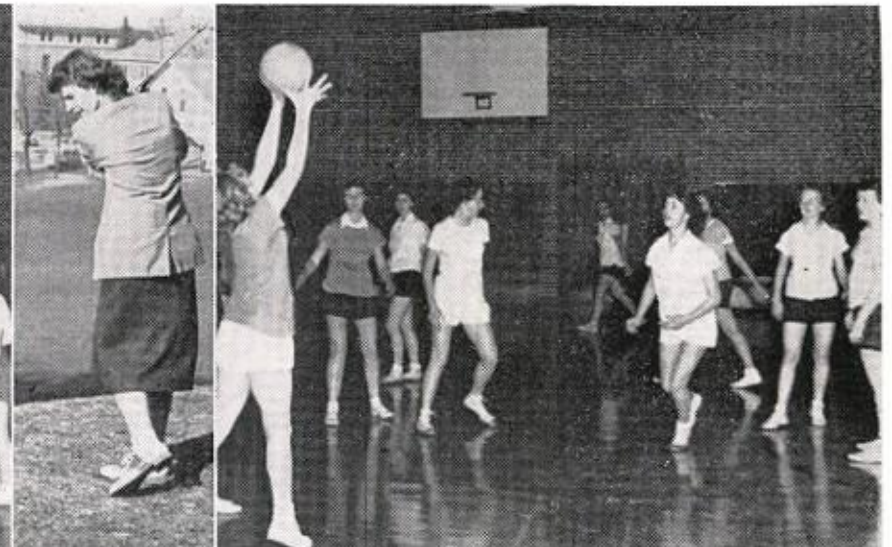

She makes it look easy.

Cheer Leaders Show Pep

NEW yells, rallies, mothering Hortense, backing the Bears with enthusiasm, upholding the school colors, and promoting good sportsmanship are only a few of the many things our high school yell team has supervised.

Through their efforts, Old Clothes Day and the bonfire before the Lewiston game were a big success. Beverly Gallup, Rosella Kelly and Catherine Fitzgerald make up the hard working trio.

Following the standards set by their seniors, are Karen Hurdstrom, Carma Rudd and Marilyn Horney, who comprise the "B" squad yell leaders.
